ENGLAND-In the House of Lords on the evening of June 8, the following remarks were made on the subject of aggressions upon American

The Earl of Clarenden, who was occasionally The Earl of Clarenden, who was occasionally very indistinctly heard in the galery, wished to put a question to his noble friend opposite, the Secretary for Foreign Affairs, with reference to the subject to which the noble and learned lord (Brougham) had just alluded. He wished to know whether his noble friend could afford the House any information that might tend to allay the great uneasiness which had prevailed in the public mind during the last few days with reference to certain alleged proceedings on the part of British cruisers, and the preparations it was said the United States Government were making to prevent acts which they regarded as equivalent to that right of search which had never been con-ceded by the United States and which was looked upon in that country as a national insult. He (Lord Clarenden) believed that no information on the ubject had yet been received in this country be vond certain ex parte statements which had been ome correspondence which had been laid before and by firing into others. He not only hoped, but expected, that it would be found there had been a great deal of exageration in the statements which had appeared on this subject, and he had no doubt that if his noble friend had received any ed. information he would not hesitate to lay it before their lordships. At all events, his noble friend would probably inform their lordships whether he had had any communication from the United States Government on the subject, and in what state matters were. If, as he (Lord Clarenden) had no doubt was the case, no other or more stringent instructions had been sent out than those under which cruisers had been in the habit of acting, he felt assured that not only were there no grounds of quarrel between the two Governments, but that the irritation which would be justified if the statements which had been put forth were true would be but momentary.

There were no instructions of which he had any knowledge under which the commanders of British cruisers would be authorized to do what it was said had been done, and if they had exceeded their instructions Her Majesty's Government could have no hesitation in stating that that was the case. This was a question upon which, in his opinion, it was requisite that great forbear-ance should be exercised by both Governments (hear, hear,) to prevent a state of things which neither of them would desire—an extension of the slave trade, or a rupture of political rela-

The United States Government were the first to declare the slave trade piracy, and he was therefore convinced that the President of the United States and his Government were no more desirous than were the Government of this country that that trade should be extended. It could not be concealed that vessels belonging to the United States had carried on the slave trade on the coast of Africa; and he did not see how, unless some right of search was given, the real nationality of the flag of suspected vessels could be as certained. (Hear, hear.) Such a right had been admitted by all maritime nations for their common protection, without it the most attrocious deeds might be perpetrated and yet remain unpunished. But the pos-session of such a right was a very different thing from the exercise of it. He was certain that no officer commanding a British cruiser, whatever his suspicions might be, would exercise the right of searching an American vessel if he was really convinced that it was bona fide American. (Hear, hear). We were as proud as the Americans were of the honor and independence of our flag, and just as determined to protect it whenever protec-tion was lawfully claimed and could be legitimately given, (hear, hear); but we should consider our flag tarnished if it were made a cover for nefarious transactions such as he had referred to; and, so far from finding fault with any foreign powers which should interpose to prevent the perpetration of such offences we should rather be obliged to them for their interference. (Hear,

He did not think the American Government fore hoped that both Governments would calmly an Englishman named Buchanan and Mr. John consider the matter, and continuing to entertain Forsyth, jr., son of the American Minister, the toward each other friendly feeling and sentiments of mutual respect, come to some good understanding on the subject. He wished to ask his steamer, are as follows: noble friend whether any late communications ed? (Hear, hear).

The Earl of Malmesbury—I am extremely in his place and express sentiments and views like those to which my noble friend has just given utterance. I am not in a position to give the ed, young Forsyth again dismounted, and draw-House any ascertained information upon this ing his knife started at the Englishman, who presubject. Up to this time our information has in a great measure been derived from ex parte statements made on the side of the American Gov ernment. If these are correctly reported, and proven to have really taken place as described by the American Government, certainly Her Majes ty's Government are not prepared to justify them. (Hear).

I trust that a great deal of exageration has ta ken place in the descriptions I have seen, though at the same time I must confess I fear that some acts have been committed that are not justifiable either by international law or by the treaties that exist between this country and the United States. I am informed that on one occasion a body of men were landed from one of Her Majesty's ships on the coast of Cuba, though that is of course a Spanish question, which can only be incidentally mentioned when speaking with regard to America. Statements have also been made that considerable annoyance has been occasioned to American trading vessels, lying at anchor at Havana from a system of rowing around those vessels, watching their cargoes taken out and taken in, exercising surveilance and espoinage over them, and finally chasing them out to sea after they left the port. It has also been stated that many American ships in the Gulf have been brought to by our cruisers and searched. Now, I say I have not the least idea whether these statements are correct or not, but these are the statements made, and your lordships know that international law nor the treaty of 1842 would justify us in taking such measures as these. I entirely agree with what my noble friend has said as to the American flag being constantly prostituted to cover the slave trade, and other il legal acts, and I think it is highly desirable that some agreements should be made between the two countries, by which it may be distinctly un derstood what proceedings ought to be taken by their officers respectively for effectually discover ing the impositions to which I have alluded, and which will not be offensive to honest traders.— (Hear, hear.) It is to that point I have directed attention of the United States, and that no later than in a conversation which I had this morning with the American Minister, and I think I may say there has not been any great differ ence of views between us. (Hear, hear.) After that conversation has been reported to the Unite States Government, after the delivery of the dispatch which I have written to Lord Napier, and after the orders which have been sent to our officers on those seas, I hope there will be no repetition of such acts as have been described to us, whether truly or not. (Hear, hear.) In these discions. So long as she marries the man of his circumstances I feel that this country need reconstruction of the disciplinary of the disci

main under no apprehension that anything will occur to break the alliance that so happily exists between the two countries. (Hear, hear.)

The Earl of Hardwick said fany excess had beed committed by any of the first of the lowing account of the termination of the lowing account of the lowing ac

beed committed by any of the officers commanding in those seas, it was not in consequence of the instructions that they had received. (Hear.)

The following is the letter of Senator Bell, in answer to the invitation to a Public Dinner in Washington City, June 17th, 1858. "Geutlemen-I am deeply sensible of the riendly feelings manifested by your letter of invitation to a 'public dinner,' in which my name is flatteringly associated with that of the Hon. J. J. "Every patriot must see, wherever he may live, ander the broad shield of this Union, that the time has come for a great moral revolution in the administration of the government. All the national interests have been slighted and neglected, as if the prosperity of thirty millions of people claimed no consideration. Improvement of rivers and harbors upon which internal commerce depends for its transit and security, have been enied; the government is carried on by the use or abuse of public credit; all practical legislation has been refused, and at a time when every man asks his neighbor, why this universal derange ment and stagnation of trade has come to pass, neither the President nor his advisers have made a recommendation or inquiry directed towards relief. They have either stood still, or exerted their administrative faculties for the domination of party or the distraction of the Uniou.

"No wonder, then, the cry of 'change' has gone forth, and that the people are raising up in their own strength to demand it. The North and the South have an equal stake in the result, and whatever energies I can command shall be employed now, as heretofore, in restoring the govcroment to its original purity, in strengthening the honds of union, and in promoting those moral and material interests by which alone, as a nation, we can be made prosperous and hap

> FOREIGN INFLUENCE IN OUR POLITICAL INSTITU-TIONS.—It is passing strange that any party for the sake of a triumph of numbers merely, should shut their eyes to the dangers that threaten our Republic, from the foreign element that has been engrafted on our institutions and is constantly and rapidly increasing within our borders. An accession to our voting population is annually made of a number more than sufficient to form a respectable State. Many of these are criminals, paupers, refugees and exiles, but all are alike reccived with open arms, and in the shortest possible space of time, are hurried to the ballst box, and invited to exercise the right of suffrage. In a large majority of cases they are scarcely more capable of exercising this franchise than are the aborigines of our Western wilds or the slaves on our plantations. What do they know of the great and good of the land; whether in the Senate or on the Bench-whether elevated to the highest post of honor and responsibility in the nation or filling the humblest office in the precinct? telligent they may be in literature and the classics, but ignorant alike of the policy and admin-istration of the government. The rapid accumulation of such elements upon our political organ izations, gathered from every quarter of the globe, from every nation under Heaven, embracng every species and complexion of government and alike only in ignorance of our own, cannot be otherwise than dangerous, not only to our progress but to our existence as a free and enlight

Especially is this true, when these hordes be come identified with a given party organization They are ready to fly to the embraces of those who will receive them, who will promise them the largest rewards. Their attachment becomes stronger and stronger every hour, blind to every-thing but success. Flushed with victory, they return with burning zeal to every new contest, gathering strength with constant and rapid accessions from foreigners equally ignorant and impulsive.

This influence in our government already forms a mighty current, undermining our fair Republic and will if uncertailed was a property to the contest of the co and will, if uncontrolled, unchecked, engulph us in one common ruin.—Union Springs Gazette.

Love in a Cottage.

BY N. P. WILLIS.

You may talk of love in a cottage, And bowers of tresiled vine— Of nature bewitchingly simple, And milk maids half divine; They may talk of the pleasure of sleep In the shade of a spreading tree, And a walk in the fields at morning, By the side of a footstep free?

But give me a siv filrtation
By the light of a chandalier—
With music between the pauses
And nobedy very near;
Or a seat on the silken sofa,
With a glass of pure old wine,
And mamma too bind to discover
The small white hand in mine.

Your love in a cottage is hungry,
Your vine is a nest of files—
Your milkmaid shocks the Graces,
And simplicity taiks of pied:
You lie down to your shady slumber.
And wake with a bug in your ear,
And your damse! that walks in the morning
Is shoullike a mountalacer.

True love is al home on a carpet,
And mightly likes his case—
And true love has an eye for a dinner,
And staves beneath shady trees.
His wing is the fan of a lady,
His foot's an invisible thing,
And his arrow is lipped with a jewel,
And shoots from a sliver string

KEEP IT BEFORE THE PEOPLE -Every one in the State should understand the many actions which disgraced the Democratic Legislature of Kentucky; therefore,

KEEP IT BEFORE THE PEOPLE that the last House of Representatives rejected McCorkle as Additional Clerk because he was an American, and preferred to elect an incompetent Democrat instead of a competent American; and that this legislation for the benefit of partisans cost the State more than $1,000; and, moreover, the business of the State was retarded and bungled, and several acts never enacted were enrolled and placed upon the statute book, and some which were enacted were altered-and that all this was the result of the election of incompetent partisan Clerks; and that R. R. REVILL approves the conduct of the Democracy in that particular.

KEEP IT BEFORE THE PEOPLE, that the Demo crats of the last Legislature voted to lease the Penitentiary to the caucus nominee of their party for $4,000 per annum less than an American had offered for it, and other Democrats were willing and anxious to pay for it. And Mr. R. R. Revill endorses their conduct in relation to the leasing of the State Prison, and approves of their attempt to virtually deprive the State of $16,000 in order to enrich a favorite partisan, and joins in the denunciation of the American Senate because it was determined that the Democratic candidate for Keeper of the Penitentiary should pay as much for the lease as other men were able and ready to pay. Let the people decide whether or not a party shall be kept in power which ex.

was brought into the House of Representatives propriation for the extension and improvement of immediate construction of which sewer had been strongly urged by the Commissioners of the Penitentiary, the Keeper of the Penitentiary and the Democratic Committee, as the most important sanitary im provement which could possibly be made, and when all parties were agreed as to the necessity of the sewer-that, under all these circumstances a Democratic member mored to amend by delaying the commencement of the work for onc year, for the arowed purpose of giving the chanccs of the job to the incoming Democratic Keeper. The want of the sewer was well known and admitted to be one of the principal causes of the ill health of the inmates of the Prison, and in case of an epidemic the mortality which would probably result from the lack of facilities for removing the filth which is constantly and unavoidably accumulating would be frightful. Yet, with those circumstances fully explained and repeatedly brought under their notice, the Democrats voted to permit the money necessary to construct the sewer to remain idle in the Treasury for another year, and to expose the inmates of the Penitentiary to the danger and horrors of disease and death, for the very laudable purpose of giving Mr. South the opportunity of making a little money out of the job. And R. R. Revill upholds and endorses their legislation and motives

KEEP IT BEFORE THE PEOPLE, that the Democratic Senators of the Legislature endorsed the recommendation of the President for Congress to pass an involuntary Bankrupt Law applicable to Banks and Railroads and other State corporations, and that the convention which nominated Revill also endorsed this doctrine so subversive of the rights of the States. That the Senate of Kentucky endorsed the doctrine that the Federal Government had the power to take these corporations from under the control and management of the States, and to place their effects in the hands of Federal commissioners to be administered upon by them at the pleasure of Federal authorities, if, on the eve of a great financial crisis when every thing was stagnant, they might be temporarily embarrassed; and, moreover, approved the policy of exercising that power. And of Baltimore, for $8,000. It is stated that her Rankin R. Revill endorses the votes and opinions of the Democratic convention and the Democratic Senators upon this subject.

KEEP IT BEFORE THE PEOPLE, that the present administration recommends the establishment of ons of the turf, and betting will be heavy if they independent Sub-Treasuries in each State, and are matched that the people be compelled to pay their taxes in specie; and that this is the doctrine of the Democratic party, and it is fair to presume that, obedient to the President and his cherished policy, the Democratic party will establish such a sys tem in Kentucky as soon as they obtain complete political ascendency in this State. And that R. R. Revill upholds this Democratic principle.

KEEP IT CONSTANTLY BEFORE THE PEOPLE, that the Democrats in the House of Representative of Kentucky endorsed the radical doctrine pro mulgated by the President, that majorities can sions which they cannot remove at pleasure; that constitutions are not binding upon majorities, but that majorities can make and unmake constitutions whenever and however they choose. The Democratic party of Kentucky endorse and approve this monstrous doctrine, which leaves the rights of the helpless minority, guaranteed by the constitution, at the mercy of the unruly passions and caprice of the majority. And R. R. Parity of the sides of the presidency, in his and caprice of the majority. And R. R. Parity of the presidency and the presidency are the presidency, in his and caprice of the majority. And R. R. Parity of the presidency are the presidency and the presidency are the presidency a place no restrictions upon their own will and pas-

It is his business, not vest field in any land. No less than five ma-chines will come into direct competition at the which he is so well skilled, of being for and start, in three trials each-first as reapers, then as mowers, and finally as combined implements. These several machines embrace all the latest hibits so reckless a contempt for their interests, and so determined a spirit to use all the offices of the government for the promotion and reward of partisans.

In the trial, will come several reapers, and several mowers, (not combined machines,) one of which is constructed upon a plan entirely new, and appointment of the proper for the candidate of their party to be electioneering for support among the opposition partisans. and best improvements, and are the most cele plies the principle of the circular saw to the tion party, under any circumstances, even th cutting of grain. IN BAD COMPANY. - We notice that Humphrey Marshall, of this State, addressed a political meeting in Philadelphia on the 15th. Simmons, Cameron, Collamer, and other Black Republicans made speeches on the same occa sion. Mr. Marshall seems to have cultivated a social, political, and Congressional intimacy with men of this type .- Lexington Statesman.

We are credibly informed that Humphrey Marshall spent several days on the Susquehanna in very pleasant communion with Lord Napier and several other foreign ministers. Of course it will be said that Humphrey is in a league with jokes. In a recent message to Congress be said: these men to overthrow the government, and to have his native land desecrated by the invading ed by a large surplus in the Treasury, must now army of a foreign foe. We would not be surpris. be corrected, or the country will be involved in ed, from the familiar intercourse which has passed between them, if Humphrey was at the bottom and the prime instigator of all the British outrages on our commerce.

The amount of which the poor lunatics at Lexington were deprived by the carelessness and inefficiency of the Democratic Clerks of the House of Representatives, is exactly the same as that which the Democrats desired to virtually give to Mr. South, the incoming Keeper of the Penitentiary. We wonder if the two incidents have any connection with each other. The Democratic papers say that their party in the Legislature voted to expose the convicts in the Penitentiary to the dangers of disease in order to spite Zeb. Ward for offering a larger sum for the Penitentiary than South was willing to give; we wonder if the Penitentiary affair had anything to do with the insane at Lexington. We think not, however, although the Superintendent is an Gentlemen:—Having made a particular examination of Goodrich's "History of Aii Nations," I am free to say, that I know of no word, great or small, that contains half the amount of useful and entertaining matter for family reading. It is written in Mr. Goodrich's best tyle. It is a library, a historical library of itself; and it is worth, according to the usual cost of good reading, two or three times the money you ask for it. It is no wonder that you have to keep a power press running constantly to aupply the orders for these volumes; for the public have only to know their value to make them a universal want with nil classes.

June 21, 1858. MOSELEY'S TUBULAR WROUGHT IRON

ARCH BRIDGES AND ROOFS.

THESE Bridges and Roofs have now been fully tested In this vicinity, and it is universally conceded that they cannot be excelled. The Roofs are wholly of Wrought Iron, or mixture of Wood and Iron; Sheeling always fron.

The Bridges are wholly Wrought Iron except the floor, which is wood, like the floors of ordinary Bridges. We are prepared to make these structures in any quantities, at prices about as follows:

Railroad Bridges, 50 feet span, 8,000 lbs, $17 50 per foot lineal.

Common Road or Turnpike, 50 feet span, 2,600 lbs., foot lineal.

Common Road or Turnpike, 50 feet span, 2,600 lbs., $5.75 per foot liueal.

Roois, all iren, 50 feet width of building, $25 per 100 gauace feet, part wood and part iron, from $12 to $20 per square.

Increase of span of bridges or width of buildings makes an increase of price, but the lucrease in price is no more than the lucrease of wooden structures.

We can furnish iron of every size to work into Bridges and Roofs, and Railroads or other companies buying the right to use them and the iron of us, can make their own structures oue third less than the above prices. Our structures weigh only iron 1.4 to 1-10 that of wood; difference in freight in a long distance buys our work. In a few days we will have at our Factory, 49.7 West Third street, lu this city, four different specimens of our Roof, where the public can inspect them to their satisfaction. We beg them to give us a cnli, as all our work is warranted, and we ask no pay on ordinary jobs until the work is done and approved, payments being secured on contracting. An earnest effort will be made to render it a valuable tamily newspaper, acceptable to all parties, combining a variety of interesting and instructive subjects in its columns. Having had considerable experience in the business, and being practically familiar with its mechanical duties, we indulge the hope that we shall be enabled to subserve to some extent, the interests to which the "Frex Pause" will be dedicated.

American Politics at the present time, may be said very justly, to be in a chrysails state. We do not design, in this Prospectus, to enter the domain of speculation. It is not necessary to the present purpose, or define our political position. This may be defined very briefly. We are conscientiously opposed to the practices and the precepts of Modern Democracy. We regard the Democratic party, as now constituted, essentially an alien party; and consider its alins and purposes, as avowed by its organs, practiced by its leaders. tially an ation party; and consider its sims and purposes, as avowed by its organs, practiced by its lenders, and developed in the present administration, pregnent with evil to the Uulon, in violation of the plain lujunctions of the early fathers, and disastrous to American Nationality. We recognize in the "Address of the American Party," promulgated at the Louisville Convention, a political creed, eminently national, eminently conservative, and peculiarly adapted to present expencies. We believe that in the fundamental principles of that organization may be found the panaeca for many, if not all the political evils, which have disordered the country and lomented sectional strife, and which it is now in evident contemplation to aggravate by unwise and imprudent legislation.

ed the country and lomented secuonal strite, and which is now in evident contemplation to aggravate by unwise and imprudent legislation.

Whilst we shall alm to be perfectly independent and honest in the expression of our views of public men and measures, we shall studiously observe courtesy and a proper respect for the opinions of others, whose convictions may lead them to differ with us. It is the peculiarity and the boast of American institutious, that they secure to each and every one the "free and untrammeted expression of his opinions." In no other government is this perfect freedom of opinion in the citizen tolerated, or considered compatible with the dignity of the State. Our whole system of government reposes upon this basis. Public opinion is here at once the source and the support of power. We cherish an apprectation of the great privilege, too exalted, to induce us to refuse to others what we are prompt to claim for ourselves. Hence the columns of the "FREE PRESS" will at all times be open to well written, courteous articles, even though they may conflict with our individual opinious.
